SAINT LUIGI SCROSOPPI & SISTERS OF PROVIDENCE

Saint Luigi Scrosoppi (4 August 1804 - 3 April 1884) was an Italian priest of the Roman Catholic Church who founded the Sisters of Providence.

As a teenager, he felt a call to the priesthood and after his studies he was ordained to the priesthood on 31 March 1827 and celebrated his first Holy Mass with his brothers. He assisted his brother Carlo to run Children's centre.

He gave himself tirelessly to fundraising and was soon running an organization that accommodated 100 boarders and 230-day pupils in a building. In 1837, he founded the Congregation of the Sisters of Providence. His primary concern was the "Education of Children and Youth". St. Luigi loved children and always received them as 'gift' of Providence. His unlimited trust in Divine Providence allowed him to move forward with courage and determination.

His testament, "CHARITY, CHARITY, SAVE SOULS, SAVE THEM WITH CHARITY" has become a source of inspiration for thousands of people today. St. Luigi, after his race on Earth, left for his heavenly abode in 1884, but his selfless work did not die with him, it continues to flourish through the Sisters of Providence in different parts of the world. Today the Sisters continue to form the little minds by being mothers, teachers and shepherdess to the children while placing their unlimited trust in the Divine Providence.
